School publication, images, videos and school work

At The Royal School, Wolverhampton we take the issue of child safety very seriously, and this includes the use of images of our students and their school work. Including images of our students in the school's prospectus, newsletters and on the website can be motivating for the students involved, and provide a good opportunity to promote the positive ethos of the school. However, schools have a duty of care towards students, which means that students must remain unidentifiable, reducing the risk of inappropriate contact, if images are used in this way.

The Royal School also uses examples of students work to be presented on the website and in the newsletters. Showcasing students work allows the school to celebrate and congratulate our students and also share great examples of work with others.

With this in mind we will never include the full name of the student alongside an image. We ask that parents' consent to the school taking and using photographs, videos and images of their children for school publications/website.

Please state if you DO NOT wish for your child's photograph or school work to be included within the prospectus or any other school publication, please complete the form below.
